Thensican be no doubt that the chief ground which the Colonial Secretary has for opposing the protest made by Mr. Ryans against breach of privilege, which has been made in the letter sent to him, was to avoid public discussion of the subject. Quite sufficient fell from him at the last meeting of the hardly necessary to do more than state the fact Council to show that this was the case. To the repeated questions of Mr. KESWICK whether discussion would be allowed, he gave either evasive answers or replies leading to highest terms, both in the English and Amerithe conclusion that no discussion would be permitted. Now, may it not be asked why in any other part of the United Kingdom, speak such a matter as this should not receive the of her reading as of the first character, the fullest discussion and the fullest publicity. The only answer to this question which was conclusion of the reading, there was but one fined/him $1. vouchsaved, was one on the principle that opinion in the crowded hall. The criticisms question of the Police Force discussed, and in the London and American papers are equally he was not allowed to bring it before the Council, the line 'adopted' being that his memorandum was put upon the minutes. This means then, that the Government of Hongkong is willing to do unto Mr. Rykte as they did unto the CHIEF-JUSTICE; and in order to appreciate what this will be, we may with advantage look into what occurred in the former case. It was this. The CHIEF, the Emperor stated that the friendship of Justice's memogandum was sent home ac- Germany with Austria and Hussia guaranteed companied by the celebrated statement of the the speech chiefly referred to fluences, war Hon. Mr. PAUNDEFOTE; and with every longs and official returns, argument which the Executive could bring to throw cold water upon the matter, and to detract from the authority of the CHIEF-Justice. This of course was not so pernicious in that case as it would be in the present; because the official position, of the CHIEF-JUSTICE would probably go a long way towards lessening the force of Mr. Paulicus FORE'S invective. But we all know that it is a golden rule in the Government Service to back up their officials, and although the whole Community of Hongkong maxifeel convinced that Mr. RYBIE has been unfairly treated, there is too much reason to fear that this will have little weight with the authorities at the Colonial Office, especially so long ducting, on the 80th July last, a female child the natives, and during her stay was well as they have Sir RICHARD to advise, them. This is no doubt what the Colonial-Secre-TABY is relying upon. In the course of nine months, or a year at the very shortest, we may find in a Blue Book how this little affair has counts of the information, but that he relied been worked; and may have then an opportunity of fully estimating the value of the father lived in Yu-lok Lane, and was a ren representations which will have been made collector. This is what the COLONIAL-SECRETARY invites the non-official members to accept, when he suggests that Mr. Rynic's protest shall be treated as was Chief-Justice Small's: and it is of great importance that the true state of affairs should be realized, and the public put upon its guard as to how matters actually stand. We desire to avoid all harsh expressions or the suggestion of any uncharitable ideas. It is not likely that any officials at present in the Colony will go the length to which Mr. PAUNCEFORE went in his memorandum concerning the CHIEF-JUSTICE. It would be unfair to suggest this for a single moment. But still we put it to the common sense of the Community whether, after seeing the spirit which was displayed at the last meeting of the Legislative Council, they can rely upon a proper representation of the present matter being made by the Colonial-Secretary, the Acting Attorney-We say nothing of His Excellency the off towards the shore. We can make no doubt, therefore, that a view of the affair eminently-favourable to the Goverment side will find its way home; and, ubless some means can be adopted for bringing the other view, and what we firmly believe is the true view of the question, to the knowledge of the Home Government, the result of the present stand for something like parture for a tour in the Crimes, and the Grand with mental proclivities differing, as do those gone to America, In the communications the ly admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the ly admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications the live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications are lived as a live admit the useful quality of many of those gone to America, In the communications are lived as a liv liberty of discussion will be that the public will be placed more than ever at the mercy of the officials. If what Mr. RYBIE said was a charge, anything distastoful to the officials may be so construed, and all discussion in the Council be put an end to. This has so nearly been the case for some time past, that the present opportunity should be seized for representing to the Home Government the injustice which is done to the Colony by the present system. We believe that it would not be difficult for the non-official members; considering the Parliamentary influence which has frequently been brought to bear upon matters connected with Hongkong and China, so to represent, the state of affairs at home, that this Colony will at last have tho same advantages of freedom of discussion, and of self government conferred upon it, as have long been granted to other places of far less importance.

Our readers have doubtless already noted that the community are promised an intellectual treat in a Reading by the Hon. Mrs. Yel verton, which is announced to take place at the City Hall on Thursday next. It is perhaps that the tide of fortune has brought this lady, with whom all must feel so much sympathy, to our far off little Colony; but we may montion that her talents as a reader are spoken of in the can journals. A letter from Dantzie, in the Bromberger Zeitung, gives some particulars regarding a onri-ous addition to the German fleet. Three boats are in course of construction in Devrient's dockyard, intended to place torpedoes under, and thus to destroy an enemy's ships. These boats Hongkohn. Cauton and Macao Steambout are built almost entirely of iron, and being. Co.'s Shares—36 to 364 per ceut, prom. about sixty feet long and only six or seven. They will oppose to the instruments of violence nothing save the granite of the Non Possumus. If bitherto the Catholics of Prussia have only been able to get in sixty deputies faithful to the Church, they will be perfectly sure, under the new diffuunstances, to get in double that number at, the next cleations. The oppression will only serve to strengthen the union of the thirteen millions of the Catholics of the Empire." Then follows a heartrending description of the state of oppression of which Catholica are the victims in Germany at this hour, which winds up as follows: "But at the end of this struggle there are no five milliards to be: gained; there are rather ten to be lost, morally. And they will be lost to a dead cortainty, because the chosen apostle is n Dollinger who is malcontent on account of not having been raised to the opiscopate of Reusch; whose spirit and judg ment are well known from the poison he distils in the literary paper of Bonn, and that miser able commercial traveller Michelia." If that is not the language of Christian tolerance and conciliation, we do not know what is:

Extracts.

- (From " Some Words about Sir Walter Scott, in the Cornhill Magazine.) No man ever depended more on the perfectly apontaneous flow of his narratives. Mr. Carlyle quotes Schiller against him, amongst other and greater names. We need not attempt to compare the two men; but do not Schiller's tragedies smell rather painfully of the lamp? Does not the professor of methetics pierce a little tondistinctly through the exterior of the poet? And, for one example, are not Schiller's excellent, but remarkably platitudinous peasants in "William Tell" miserably colourless alongside of Scott's rough border dalesman, racy of speech, anything to skim. Had he not—if we may use the word without offence—been cramming all his life, and practising the art of story-telling every day he lived? Probably the most striking incidents of his books are in reality mere modifications of anecdotes which he had rebearsed a hundred times before, just disguised enough to fit into his story. That the Baillie is as real a human being as ever lived-as the present Lord Mayor, or Mr. Edmond Beales, or Dandie Dinmont, or Sir Walter bimself; and that Mrs. Macgregor has obviously just stepped off the boards of a minor theatre, devoted to the melourama. As long as Scott keeps to his strong ground, his figures are as good flesh and blood as ever walked in the Salt-market of Glasgow: when once he tries his heroic, be manufactures his characters from the materials used by the frequenters of masked balls. There are, indeed, occasions on which his genius does not so signally desert him. They are like the five brothers Osbaldistane, who were mixtures in different proportions of sor, gamekeeper, horse-jockey, bully, and fool. We must, indeed, substitute some more complimentary qualities, yet, with the exception of sor and bully, it must be confessed that these qualities appear more or less conspicuously even in these patterns of their sex. And we must confess that this is a considerable drawback from Scott's novels. To take the passion out of a novel is something like taking the sunlight out of a landscape; and to condemn, all the heroes to be utterly commonplace is to remove the centre of interest in
